The international summer school, organised by Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań, a long-term partner of Pavlo Tychyna Uman State Pedagogical University, was held to a high standard.

First and foremost, I would like to mention the location - the Dębina Palace near Poznań: a beautiful palace with excellent conditions and a great atmosphere. An essential guarantee of the school's success was also the fantastic selection and high level of preparation of the school's teaching staff, representing various scientific fields of the Polish university. A visit to the Adam Mickiewicz University and a tour of Poznań also left flattering impressions.

Finally, I would like to thank the organisers - Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań and the Polish National Agency for Academic Exchange, which funded the international summer school project.

~Prof. Igor Kryvosheia, Director of the Polish Cultural and Educational Centre at the Pavlo Tychyna Uman State Pedagogical University.

"From 2-8 April 2023, I, a first-year student of the second degree (Master's) at the Department of Pre-school Pedagogy of the H.S. Skovoroda Kharkiv National Pedagogical University, Shepelova Liudmyla, had the opportunity to participate in the International School "Interdisciplinary Studies in the Humanities", held within the framework of the international summer school programme at the Dębina Palace Complex with the support of the Polish National Agency for Academic Exchange NAWA.

I wish to draw attention to the significant relevance of the events and activities organised as part of the internship and to thank the lecturers, among whom were Prof. Jakub D. Rybka, Prof. Łukasz Rozycki, Prof. Konrad Dominas, Prof. Aleksander Mikołajczak, Prof. Rafał Dymczyk, Prof. Igor Krywoszeja and Dr Kostiantyn Mazur for an excellent project and valuable information on interdisciplinarity in the humanities.

Naturally, the friendly atmosphere created by the organisers and the exceptional methods of organising lectures and workshops, cannot be forgotten. While gaining knowledge, skills and priceless international experience in interdisciplinarity, time was successfully divided between study, travel and recreation.

A guided walking tour of the sights of Poznan was organised and we were introduced to the material and technical facilities of the Morasko campus of the Adam Mickiewicz University (Faculty of Political Science and Journalism, Centre for Advanced Technologies, Faculty of History). A memorable evening of Ukrainian cuisine was organised, as well as, an enjoyable cognitive and cultural break.

We received many great impressions, and I am sure I will use the acquired information in my professional development in the future. I am very grateful to you for promoting the development of academic and scientific mobility of young Ukrainian scientists and educators. I hope for further cooperation, exchange of experiences and fruitful communication."

~ Liudmyla Shepelova , H.S. Skovoroda Kharkiv National Pedagogical University

The summer school 'Interdisciplinary studies in Humanities' was an unforgettable educational and intercultural experience, which will result in close cooperation between Ukrainian universities and the Adam Mickiewicz University, Poznań."
