"Students of speciality 014 Secondary Education (Ukrainian Language and Literature) of the first (Bachelor's) and second (Master's) levels of higher education and lecturers of the Ukrainian Language and Literature Department of Khmelnytskyi Humanitarian-Pedagogical Academy took part in the Summer School "Heritage and Identity in Europe" at the Institute of European Culture AMU (Gniezno, Poland). The participants of the summer school are sincerely grateful to the organizers and lecturers for an eventful and interesting program! Important issues of relations between Poland, Ukraine, and Germany, the problems of preserving historical heritage, the history of the Ukrainian national minority in Poland, the influence of Roman traditions on the development of democratic principles in Europe, and the problems of heritage and identity in cinema and literature were discussed during the lectures and workshops. The excursions to the Museum of the Origin of the Polish State in Gniezno, the Museum of the First Piasts on the Lednica island, tours of the Cathedral, and the Greater Poland Ethnographic Park in Dziekanowice were informative and fascinating. Besides researching current issues, the participation of Ukrainian students in such summer schools provides various opportunities to obtain Polish Bachelor's and Master's degrees or joint degrees.

Dr. Kostiantyn Mazur familiarized the participants of the summer school with the possibilities of cooperation between Adam Mickiewicz University, higher education institutions in Ukraine and foreign institutions that are members of the EPICUR Consortium. The example of this young scholar and lecturer is so inspiring. We are convinced that Kostiantyn Mazur is one of those professionals who can implement interesting projects in education, self-realize, move only forward, and motivate others to move forward too. It should be noted that the projects implemented by the University team are interdisciplinary thus it complicates the conditions for their implementation, but at the same time expands the opportunities for participants.

Students of speciality 014 Secondary Education (Ukrainian Language and Literature) both Bachelor's and Master's Degrees and lecturers of the Ukrainian Language and Literature Department of Khmelnytskyi Humanitarian-Pedagogical Academy had the opportunity to learn about the peculiarities of the establishment and operation of the European University. EPICUR is a new generation alliance of European universities that pilots a new way to intensify cooperation between higher education institutions by creating a European University. Its mission is to internationalize universities, strengthen scientific cooperation, and increase access to projects funded by the European Commission. For Ukrainian higher education institutions, this is an opportunity to reach a new level of performance, and for students who want to study at Adam Mickiewicz University, this is a chance to become immediate participants in interesting educational projects.

We are sincerely grateful to everyone who contributed to the organization of this summer school!

Special thanks to the project curators - Dr. Kostiantyn Mazur and Dr. Katarzyna Jędraszczyk!"
